After 51 years of faithful service to the city of Atlanta, Fire Chief William B. Cody, 71, died at Wesley Memorial hospital at 6:25 o'clock Wednesday night, bringing to a close one of the most consistent records of untiring service in the annals of American fire-fighters.

Chief Cody was widely known over the entire south and had thousands friends, drawn to him by his loveable character and his untiring devotion to his duty. About a month ago he was stricken with an attack of paralysis, but on Monday of this week he had recuperated to such an extent hat he went back to the duty he ved so well. The strain proved reat for him and Monday night uffered a relapse at his home,

Party Leaders Believe Measure Can Be Passed Before Christmas Recess Rolls 'Round.

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 .- (AP)-Interest in tariff revision declined perceptibly in the senate today after a vote to postpone on Friday night final action until the December session and as a result tonight's threehour session was abandoned Perseverance of the "young guard' republican regulars in their wish to force the senate to stick to its task appeared to vanish just before the recess, when nerve-taxed democrats and old guard republicans outyelled their junior colleagues in favor of doing away with tonight's meeting.

A democrat, Heflin, of Alabama first endeavored to obtain unanimous consent to recess until tomorrow at the end of the afternoon session. Senator Kean, of New Jersey, one of the "young guard" republicans, objected earnestly but smilingly. Then Senator Couzens, of Michigan, a republican member of the finance committee, made a motion to abandon the night session and it carried "ayes" reverberating.

While the tariff worked its way day's four and a half bour meeting,

Chairman Smoot, of the finance After More Than Five committee, determined that not one minute be lost in the effort to get the bill through, brought up the two remaining committee amendments to OCILLA, Ga., Nov. 20 .- (P)-Aft. the flax, hemp, and jute schedule. One

At noon Wednesday two meetings were called to order. One was that of the shareholders of the Atlanta and Lowry National bank at the Trust Company of Georgia building, and the other was that of the shareholders of the Fourth National bank at the offices at Five Points.

The shareholders of the Atlanta and Lowry received the report of the special committee appointed to effect the consolidation, which recommended the change of name to the First National Bank of Atlanta and nominated the directors, committees and officers. The report was adopted unanimously.

At the same time, the shareholders of the Fourth National bank ratified the merger proposal.

of the Fourth National bank ratified the merger proposal.

At the conclusion of the shareholder meetings, the directors of the new bank met in the offices of the Trust Company of Georgia and elected the officers of the First National bank.

The merger was ratified to be effective at the close of business Saturday. The union combines the historic backgrounds of two great institutions, the Atlanta and Lowry established in 1865, and the Fourth in 1890, and the new bank will be a financial landmark closely identified with every phase of southern economic progress since Atlanta began its phenomenal rise from the ashes of the War Between the States.

rise from the asnes of the War Between the States.

The combined capital investment of the group headed by the new banking house is approximately $25,000,000, and the aggregate resources, also including those of its affiliations, exceed $150,000,000. The First National alone will have a capital structure of $12,000,000 and resources of more then $10,000,000.

The group thus constituted will include, altogether, the First National bank, the First National Company, and the Trust Company of Georgin, Atlanta; the National Exchange Bank of Augusta: the Fourth National Bank of Columbus; the Continental Trust Company of Macon; the First National Bank of Rome, and the Liberty Bank and Trust Company of Savannah.

Trust Company of Macon; the First National Bank of Rome, and the Liberty Bank and Trust Company of Savannah.

Locations of the offices in downtown Atlanta are: Five Points. Prior and Edgewood, Whitehall and Alabama. Peachtree and Ellis. Outlying branches are operated at the following strategic points: Peachtree and North avenue, Marietta street and Bankhead avenue, Lee and Gordon streets, Euclid and Moreland avenue, Decatur, East Point and College Park. An important unit in the First National group will be the Trust Company of Georgia, with capital and surplus of approximately $5,000,000, the oidest trust company in the south. The Trust Company of Georgia was established in 1890 by the late Joel Hurt, under legislative charter.

Mr. Hurt was succeeded as president 20 years ago by Ernest Woodruff, who continued as its president until a few years ago, when he in turn was succeeded by T. K. Glenn. The trust company handles estates valued at many millions of dollars, serving as executor, and renders a valuable service to those with money to leave to their families by eliminating the uncertainties attendant upon vesting executorships in relatives or friends.

Capital stock of the Trust Company of Georgia will be owned pro rata by shareholders of the First National. In the future the company is qualified to serve as executor, trustee, registrar, transfer agent, and in all trust capacities. It is further understood that the securities business, heretofore carried on by the Trust Company of Georgia and the Fourth National Company, which will have office in a number of key cities in the southenst.

All details of the opening of the new bank, such as the printing of checks, pass books, ledgers, etc., have been attended to, and the necessary changes in the bank signs at the various banking locations will be made in time for Monday's opening, it was said. Officers of the merging banks pointed out that the consolidation will not cause any inconvenience to depositors of the two institutions, can continue to use checks on the

THE ADVANCING PETRELS

If the Petrels defeat Mercer next Saturday their state championship claims will hardly be disputed. That Oglethorpe has a better team than Tech or Georgia could not fairly be questioned. Some say the Petrels couldn't beat Georgia again. Personally we think they could. However that may be, the Petrels did beat the Bulldogs on the day they played, which is always the best evidence we can think of. That Oglethorpe could take Tech for a ride is an even more certain proposition so far as we are concerned. As a matter of fact, Tech had better be very careful or the Jackets may supply the Auburn supporters with their first chance to cheer during the season.

SO IF YOU WANT to see the state's best team in action Saturday you should attend that game at Hermance stadium and show your appreciation of the record of a brave and valiant band of warriors who have brought Atlanta much prestige on the gridiron.—By Morgan Blake, in the Atlanta Journal, November 18th.

The county board of WILL HOLD MEETING through the Bishop Realty Company, Mr. Wells said. The county board of education was given a 60-day option to decide whether it will buy eight, nine or ten acres. The 10-acre price $25,000: the nine-acre price $22,500. and the eight-acre price $20,000. The property fronts 600 feet on Delmont drive and a similar distance on Lexie avenue, and is 750 feet deep. It is midway between R. L. Hope and E. Rivers grammar schools, and is said to be an ideal location for school purposes. The first unit of the high school will be opened next September, to care for freshman and sophomore classes, while the second unit, will open the following September to house junior and senior classes. Until opening of the second unit, the junior and senior classes will attend Fulton High school.

There are 150 high school students in the North Side now going to private schools because of the distance to Fulton High, it was said. Mr. Wells estimated that when the two units are open, there will be an attendance of at least 500 students, and that within five years the high school will be one of the largest in the state. Plans for the school will be drawn by Hentz, Adler & Shutze, architects. Each unit is to cost $100,000 and will have 10 to 12 classrooms.

which was originally scheduled to come to Gadsden, the Vigilant is a beautiful craft, 128 feet long and 37 feet in diameter. It will carry three passengers in addition to a pilot under ordinary conditions.

Mr. Starnes announced that while operating out of Gadsden the Vigilant will visit Atlanta, Birmingham, Tuscaloosa, Rome, Dalton, Rockmart, Cedartown, Cartersville, Montgomery, and numerous other cities of Alabama and Georgia. Later the Vigilant is expected to fly to St. Petersburg, Fla., where it will base indefinitely.

The airship Vigilant, of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, cruised to Gadsden, Ala., Wednesday from its home base at Akron, Ohio, it was announced by W. G. Starnes, branch manager for the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company in Atlanta.

The airship, a non-rigid craft of 85, 000 cubic feet capacity, carried V. L. Smith, as chief pilot and navigator, and A. T. Sewell, relief pilot.

The Vigilant followed a course which took it by way of Mt. Vernom Columbus, and Hillsboro, Ohio; Lexington, Ky., and Chattanooga. It stopped at Lexington for refuelling before continuing on to the Gadsden hangar which will be its home base for several weeks.

The Vigilant's ground crew, in a special high-speed bus, also went to Gadsden, following practically the same course as the dirigible.

Space Goes Fast in Hospital Benefit Edition

Dr. C. L. Bonta, advertising director of the Lane Drug Stores, Inc., is shown here signing a contract for an advertisement in the Christmas gift suggestion edition of The Constitution, being sponsored by the woman's auxiliary of the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children, to be published on December 8. With Dr. Bonta is Mrs. Fort Adams, member of the auxiliary, who solicited the business.

BY MRS. GEORGF ROBERT

Scenes similar to that depicted in the accompanying photograph are taking place all over Atlanta with gratifying frequency.

Here we have Mrs. Fort Adams, one the woman's auxiliar woman's auxil

Here we have Mrs. Fort Adams, one of the members of the woman's auxiliary of the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children, with C. L. Bonta, of the Lane Drug Stores, Inc., signing a contract for the advertisement of this large group of business houses which is to appear in the Christmas gift suggestion edition of The Constitution to be published on December 8 under the auspices of the hospital's auxiliary.

The fact that so many of these contracts are being signed this far in advance is proof positive that those who advertised in the pages sponsored by the auxiliary last December found their investment in this particular form of advertising a paying one, In many instances those taking a certain amount of space last year have asked for double the space this year. So the signing of these contracts becomes symbolic, an evidence of good faith on both sides, an assurance to the public that everything advertised in these particular pages is something tested and approved by the most fastidious women in Atlanta and—probably best of all—an absolute refutation of the false report that business is slack. As a matter of fact, our merchants are finding trade so brisk and the Christmas prospects so good that they need no urging to make considerable financial outlay in the direction of bringing their offerings to the attention of the buying public through a medium that bears the very-hallmark of prosperity.

Among the merchants and manufacturers who have already put their signatures to the agreement of those dition of December 8 are the following:

Adams-Cates Company, American Bakeries, Atlanta Baking Company, Ed Adams-Cates Company, American Bakeries, Atlanta Baking Company, Fox theater, John H. Harland Company, Swift Specific Company, W. Z. Turner Luggage Company, W. Z. Turner Luggage Company, W. S. Healey Real Estate & Improvement Company, Courts & Co., Sears, Roebuck & Co., J. M. High Company, French Shoppe, Chain Oil Company, Daniel Johnson-DuBose Company, Daniel Patterson & Co.

IVY TELEPHONE NUMBERS CHANGED OVER TO JACKSON

The telephone prefix Ivy passes out f use in Atlanta Thursday with the delivery of the winter edition of the telephone directory.

The prefix Jackson takes the place of Ivy and will be used hereafter to call or dial Ivy numbers. It is stated that only the prefix is changed and the call purposes the control of the prefix is changed and the call purposes are stated.

call numbers remains the same.

The new telephone book also tains more Cherokee listings than here-tofore. Many telephones have been transferred from the Hemlock office and this has resulted in many num ber changes.

There is also a separate section in which the Clarkston subscribers are listed. The additions and changes, together with the classified directory make the new book the largest ever published for Atlanta.

C. OF C. INDORSES CITY COUNCIL'S WAR ON BEGGARS

Directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce yesterday gave approval to a resolution directed to the city council supporting the movement launched by the Community Chest calling upon the council to take action to rid the city of beggars.

The resolution will be transmitted formally to the council today.

FIRST REHEARSAL OF PASSION PLAY CHORUS TONIGHT

First rehearsal of the chorus of 200 oices which is to sing in the seven performances of the Freiburg Passion Play, to be given at the auditorium

Play, to be given at the auditorium during the week of December 9. will be held tonight, beginning at 7:30, at Ampico hall.

Enrico Leide, conductor of the Atlanta symphony orchestra, who will rehearse and direct the vocal chorus for the Passion Play, in issuing the call for tonight's rehearsal, said that he still had room for a number of good voices, including soprano, tenor, alto and bass-baritone, and requested that any singers wishing to join with this chorus meet him at Ampico hall a few minutes before 7:30, the hour for the opening of the rehearsal.

Included in the chorus are many of the finest singers from the various choirs of the city, Georgia Tech and Emory glee clubs, and other musical organizations. Seat sale for the seven performances of the Passion Play will open at Cable Piano Company next Monday morning.

The year round

PERFECT REFRIGERATION

Harmful bacteria know no season. They thrive on warmth. No matter how chilly it may be outdoors, it's usually hot in your kitchen. Keeping foods safely refrigerated is therefore as much of a problem in autumn as it is in midsummer.

The General Electric Refrigerator will automatically keep your perishable foods always below 50 degrees-keep them fresh and healthful every day in the year. Whether it be warm or cold, whether you keep kitchen windows open or shut, whether you go away for a week-end, your food will always be in perfect condition when you want it.

The General Electric is the only refrigerator with an all-steel cabinet. It is built like a safe. Heat cannot leak in, cold cannot seep out. It is sturdy, dependable . . . and very decorative. All its mechanism is mounted on top in a dust-proof, hermetically sealed steel casing. Quietly it operates, without ever needing to be oiled. And it never creates any radio interference.

More than 350,000 users today of General Electric Refrigerators and not one has ever paid out a single dollar for service or repairs.

SEE A DEMONSTRATION of this most modern of refrigerators. See its accessible freezing regulator. Choose the size you need. There are various models from $215 (at the factory), any one of which you can buy for a small down payment and convenient terms.

There could be no surer sign of a state's prosperity than its record of automobile sales.

When business is booming and money is plentiful, a man's first thought nine times out of ten is a new automobile. In times of depression, when money is "tight," he generally makes out with the old car for another year.

Unusually significant, therefore, of the good times that have come to Georgia—of the statewide condition of prosperity—is the announcement from the state automobile license department that there has been in the first ten and a half months of 1929 an increase of nearly 11 per cent in the number of automobiles in the state as against the entire 12 months of 1928.

Even more revealing as to the prosperous condition of business slept in Aker.

In all of his long service, Chief Cody was never reprimanded nor did he ever receive a demerit. His record was clean, consistent and the embodiment of faithful service. One year he reduced the number over the previous year by 80, and the following year this was still further reduced by 26, the result of a further reduced by 26, the result of a system of inspection in the congested districts of the city, by which property owners are required to keep their premises clear of inflammable rubbish, and to protect their premises against fire causes as much as possible.

Chief Cody was not worried about death. On one occasion, he was quoted as saying that "they used to sing an old song: 'I would foot live always; I care not to stay.' I believe I agree with whoever wrote that song. It doesn't worry me a great deal about growing old or at the thought of dying, but it does worry me when I think of having to leave my friends."

The practice of painting Atlanta fire alarm boxes yellow was inaugu-rated by Chief Cody on the theory that the yellow box could be seen of Chief "Bill" spread like wildfire at night better than the conventional red box. Chief Cody's favorite fire alarm box joke was about that man who turned in an alarm thinking he was calling for a Yellow Cab. I know it is a great and interesting game, and just why in the world firemen are not thought more of I cannot understand."

Home All He Saved.

After more than half a century of service to Atlanta, Chief Cody remarked that all he had saved was a good home for his family. When pressed by his family to move out to their new home, Chief Cody declared: "No, I can't go. I'm going to stay right here with my boys just as long as I serve, and when I go out there I am going to quit. If I am going to live in this town away from my old associates, I want to get just as far a way as I can." Chief Cody did provide well for his family, but he also gave to worthy causes with a lavish hand. Any appeal that smacked of true value went straight to his heart, and many a fellow fire fighter he

In all of his long service, Chief Cody was never reprimanded nor did he ever receive a demerit. His rechief, had friends all over the United States, for everybody he ever met became his friend. They'll tell you how Bill Cody never sent a fire-man into a blazing building—he led him in there and stayed until that fireman was not in the least danger, for Bill Cody wouldn't make a man under him take a risk he would not take himself.

Industrial South, manualli Says Frenchman

accommist who lectures at Emory at 8:30 tonight, in an interview Wednesday.

Mr. Siegfried has been connected with the French foreign office since the signing of the armistice, and is an international authority on questions of political and social development. In this evening's lecture he will speak on "The United States and the League of Nations."

He first visited the south in 1898, and affirms that the great change in southern ideas and business since that time brings foreibly to his mind the unexampled revival which has followed reconstruction days.

According to Mr. Siegfried, "the southern part of America has always attracted French people. Paul Bourget, the great poet, visited Atlanta a number of years ago, and was most favorably impressed by it. Although I like the south as a whole, this is the only-southern city which seems to possess the new consciousness."

Another unusual and delightful feature of Atlanta, in the opinion of Mr. Siegfried, is its mild climate. Says he: "When I first came to Atlanta, I had been traveling in the extreme south of the country, and I felt at once that this was my first contact with a traly temperate climate."

The Piedmont ranges fascinate the French economist, and he declares that, were he a painter, he could find no more enchanting spot than Atlanta for the cultivation of his art. Mr. Siegfried has always been interested in this part of the United States, since his father was an importer of American, cotton at the Havre, and owned warehouses in New Orleans and Savannah.

Two 25° Tubes of BY PLATT YOUNG Colgate Ribbon Dental Cream

$1.00 value for 50c

FREE OFFER: To induce still more people to try Ribbon Dental Cream . . . the scientific dentifrice with the foaming, penetrating action . . . we make this remarkable offer. Only Colgate . . . world's largest maker of tooth paste ... could finance such a proposition. The resources and guarantee of this hundred-million-dollar firm are behind this deal. There is no "catch" to this offer. Colgate simply wants you to try Ribbon Dental Cream. To repay you for doing this, we offer you a genuine new Colgate Toothbrush . . . as described . . . actual value 50 cents . . . ABSOLUTELY FREE!

When you brush your teeth on the inside, use an inhow wonderfully

The brush

This tooth brush - the newest, most advanced type known to dental science - was designed by the Colgate Department of Dental Education . . . a group of dentists who have studied the needs of hundreds of thousands of men, women and children.

Examine this brush. Study its shape, its size, its bristles. It is made by skilled American workers . . . under the most sanitary conditions . . . from selected, imported snowwhite bristles of finest quality. Every brush is carefully inspected. Handles are of lovely transparent material, in 5 exquisite shades of green, purple, amber. Bristles are held in a firm vise-like grip that never loosens.

This brush is identical in quality, in size, in durability to nationally advertised brushes that sell regularly in the better stores at 50c. Now yours free with this unique offer.

The dentifrice

Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream is the world's largest-selling tooth paste. More people use it . . . and more dentists recommend it . . . than any other dentifrice.

The reason for this is simply that Colgate's cleans teeth better. Colgate's contains the world's best cleansing agent - a penetrating foam that cleanses where the toothbrush cannot reach.

Your dentist will tell you that decay doesn't start on the smooth outer surfaces of the teeth . . . but in the tiny crevices where food particles and mucin collect,

No tooth brush can reach these hard-toclean places. They must be cleansed by the dentifrice. Hence the real test of a tooth paste is its ability to get down into these crevices and cleanse them thoroughly. A scientific test recently proved that Colgate's has greater penetrating power than any of the leading tooth pastes on the market today - the secret of Colgate's superior cleansing power.

The foam of Colgate's carries a fine chalk powder . . . a polishing material prescribed by dentists . . . which polishes the enamel safely, brilliantly.

The Colgate method of scientific tooth brushing

After years of study and thousands of experiments, the Colgate Method of scientifically cleansing the teeth has been developed by the Colgate Dept. of Dental Education.

This Method is most effective when Ribbon Dental Cream is brushed on with the Colgate Brush. For the springy, serrated bristles, set at exactly the right distance, act in a way that applies the full, concentrated cleansing power of the famous Colgate foam . deep down into the "hard-to-clean" places. Only thus can you be sure of cleaning these difficult spots where decay lurks.

Start today to use the Colgate Method of Scientific Tooth Brushing . . . and note the difference in your teeth ten days hence.

This offer is strictly limited. The supply of brushes has been rigidly allotted to the stores which are co-operating in this great offer. They will not last long . . . once people read this announcement. So, act NOW! It may be months or even years before we can repeat this amazing proposition.

In particular, the December delivery of corn attracted at-Total stocks of the contract grade of corn in public elevators here having been reduced almost to zero, and reports being current that little from either Illinois or Iowa. Under such circumstances and with wide-spread notice being taken that the wheat market, after a rise of 13 cents a bushel of late, appeared over-bought, spread trading between wheat and corn became an outstanding fea-ture today, sending wheat sharply downward, whereas corn displayed rel-Closing and

Closing quotations on wheat were shaky, 23-8 to 31-8 cents per bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed exactly the same as 24 hours previously to 1 cent off; oats 7-8 to 1 cent down, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to 12 cents ad-

Interest of grain traders began early today to focus much more on corn than has recently been the rule. It was pointed out that although the seasonal period for increased receipts of corn was at hand, terminal stocks in Chicago and elsewhere were decidedly smaller than last year and that with an excellent shipping demand continually present the available supply was about 200,000,000 bushels less than a year ago. Moreover, such new corn as may arrive soon in Chicago will apparently not be available for delivery on December contracts to any great extent, elevators here being so full of other grain that the corn cannot be taken in and dried.

one stage today to substantially above vesterday's finish for the December delivery and for March delivery as well, notwithstanding that the wheat weil, notwithstanding that the wheat market was showing unusual weakness. At no time today were wheat values here as high as yesterday. Black rust news from Argentina continued unabated, but Liverpool and Buenos Aires wheat quotations were weak and better weather for the Argentine harvest was reported with free offerings of Argentina wheat abroad.

Above all, trans-Atiantic demand for wheat from North America appeared to have come to virtually a standstill for at least the time being. The net result was heavy selling of wheat future deliveries here and simultaneous purchases of corn. Oats sympathized with wheat weakness. Provisions were affected by an advance in hog values and averaged slightly higher.

"My policy is the same now as it has always been: I have nothing to say," he said.

Mr. Morgan, head of the banking house which bears his name, has been in Scotland grouse shooting and spent some time at his London home. He was met at the pier by Thomas W. Lamont, a partner of J. P. Morgan & Co., who has been the spokesman for the Morgan bank in all of the conferences on the stock market situaferences on the stock market situation, and several other members of the Arrivals from Texas are increasing this week, with beans, beets, tomatoes, grapefult and a few oranges being offered on the local market from various producing sections in that state. Louisians oranges were on the market Avednesday and being offered at reasonable prices; the stock is bright, smooth and of good sizes, and of very good quality. The market on California grapes of various varieties is firm, and good stock is meeting with ready demand at ateady prices.

Expectations of bullish ginnings figures tomorrow carried cotton prices

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(P)— Expectations of bullish ginnings fig-ures tomorrow carried cotton prices into new high ground for the present movement today and although realizing by recent buyers nearly wiped out the gain, final prices were 5 to 7 points net up, with the closing tone steady. January, after advancing to 17.76, eased off and closed at 17.71

17.76, eased off and closed at 17.71 for a net gain of 7 points.

Near noon there was more or less realizing by recent buyers and prices eased off 10 to 12 points but offerings appeared absorbed at the setback and the market gradually improved in late trading but failed to duplicate the high points. December closed at 17.57 and March 17.98, or 5 to 7 points net up.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Cotton was stron early on trade buying and short covering but liquidation in December retenders weakened it in later trading.

There was much switching from December to later deliveries; but large spot house core good buyers of December against sale of distant positions. There seems to be distant positions.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The cotton market bulged to higher price levels this morning as result of a rather unfavorable weekly weather and crop government report, but the advance attracted realising, causing values to ease of agains.

Assuming that the government crop forecast as of November 1, 15,009,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight was approximately correct the medical process.

NEGRO ON TRIAL IN MACON COURT FOR MAIL FRAUD

MACON, Ga., Nov. 20.—(P)—Witnesses were here from several states today to testify in United States district court as to the activities of L. L. Lewis, negro, accused of using the mails to defraud. The negro is said to have reaped a considerable fortune in selling "love charms" and other things to superstitious negroes throughout the country.

Two Florida witnesses, James Arnold and H. G. Huff, negroes, testified during the trial that they had purchased the herb roots and love charms, but got no results.

Judge Bascom S. Deaver gave him the alternative of serving a year and a day in the federal penitentiary in Atlanta and paying a fine of $5, or paying a fine of $800 and serving a term of one year on probation, under the supervision of Federal Probation Officer R. Captain Ennis is a member of a prominent middle Georgia family and served with distinction during the World War, it was brought out in a review of his record before the court. A number of friends testified as to his good character.

George E. Broadnax, head of the Atlanta division of the secret service, took the stand after the jury trial was halted to accept Captain Ennis pleas of guilty, and stated that reports had been circulated that prosecution of Captain Ennis are based on facts as I found them, "he said, "and politics had nothing to do with the case."

COTTON MART HEADS SUMMONED IN PROBE NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Following is the official list of transactions on the New York Curb Market giving all stocks and bonds traded.

Investigation of Three Exchanges by Senate Begins December 9.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(P)—
Ecarings in an investigalton of cotton exchanges by a senate agriculture subcommittee will be opened December 9, when the presidents of the New York. Chicago and New Orleans exchanges will be summoned to testify.

Decision to defer the hearings until after the regular session opens was made by the subcommittee today soon after the senate had agreed to end the special session on Friday.

In addition to the three presidents of the exchanges, the subcommittee also decided to summon Walker D. Hines, of New York city, a former president of the Cotton Textile Institute; George A. Sloan, now president of the institute, and Will Clayton, a cotton broker, of Houston, Texas.

The investigation will attempt to determine what effect speculative transactions in the cotton markets have had on the price of cotton, which is selling at present in a depressed market.

During a discussion of pians by the subcommittee today. Senator Ransdell, democrat. Louisiana, one of its members, read a telegram from J. P. Henican, president of the New Orleans exchange, in which the depressed market was attributed to "too much legislation" and "uncertainty over what congress may or may not do."

This led Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, another member of the subcommittee, to observe it was imperative that the three presidents be heard in person, and the subcommittee agreed.

"Carmen," was brough direct a story for the glorious Greta. His camera technique is, to say the least, superb. There are few stilted situations in the film. The camera sweeps about in wide circles; springs suddenly upon the characters through closed doors; walks with them; and follows them through key-holes.

To lend effectiveness to his scenes, Director Feyder arranged to screen them continuously in a single sequence, the lens taking in the happenings as though they were seen through a human eye, giving a complete kaleidoscopic effect in sweeping glimpses.

Greta herself is fascinating in her tragic role, and is little less than magnificent in a powerful scene in which jealousy brings disaster to a French family. The dramatic intensity and trigital to the Swedish star's talent.

Find a man, woman or child who is afflicted with catarrh of the nose and its connecting air passages and you will always find a patient who is most susceptible to more serious diseases. Why? Science explains that Catarrh interferes with natural breathing thus preventing proper purification of the blood by the lungs and also prevents refreshing sleep. Catarrh is a constant drain upon the nutrition of the body, making the patient weak and thereby susceptible to diseases such as head and chest colds.

Your physician will tell you that catarrh is a local condition, not a systemic disease. You must light it constantly with a local remedy that reaches the apot. Of the many remedien that have been tested by Nose and Throat Specialists to relieve the

Slow But Steady Movement Sends Majority of Issues Up

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(47)—Stock prices made further recovery in today's Curb market, with trading again normal volume. Net gains in most of the active issues ranged from 1 to 4 points, although the advances in some of the high-priced issues ranged from 10 to 36.14 points. Easier receit conditions and widespread expectations that the recession in business as a result of the recent decline in stock prices would be moderate and short lived provided the background for the upward movement.

Some of the public utilities which have been moving ahead rather fast in the recent rally met stock on all business but these offerings were fair-lived provided. American Super-lived was little activity in the aviation group, but gains again predominated. Trading in the oils was rather quiet, although reports of a further slight decrease in crude oil production last week was regarded as a good omen. Cosden jumped 6 points on one sale and Humble advanced 4, with the

OLD POLITICAL ENEMIES UNITE AGAINST 'LEGGERS

Monuments to the memory of General Robert E. Lee and President Jefferson Davis were proposed here today in the annual meeting of the United Daughter of the Confederacy as steps were taken to perpetuate the lore of southern literature, and those who refer to the lost cause patriots as "rebeles" met rebuke.

The Daughters of the Confederacy said Mrs. W. N. Merchants, of Chapham, Van., president general of the U.D. C., "are on guard to see that the men of the south are not called rebels, but heroes," The Confederacy will "hold aloft the torch of truth."

Round Table Discussion of Trade Problem Consumes Time of Final Session.

Time of Final Session.

The fifth annual southern convention of the National Fertilizer Association held its final session Wednesday, occupying the entire time with round table discussion of various trade problems.

The soil improvement committee, in a report this morning to the convention, outlined a campaign of fertilizer demonstrations throughout the south, in co-operation with raw material companies. The purpose of the demonstration, the committee reported, is to show comparisons of results obtained from using different amounts of fertilizer. The demonstrations are scheduled to begin next spring.

The general session on Tuesday, which followed a series of committee meetings on Monday, was featured by addresses by Judge Martin A. Morrison, attorney for the federal trade commission, and Judge C. C. Wilson, of Richmond. President L. W. Rowell and Executive Secretary Charles J. Brand also spoke to the delegates. The annual dinner of the association was held at the Biltmore Tuesday evening.

Madam Grenier Says Heated

ADAM CECILE GRENIER, who has recently left France behind her to make her home for the future in Atlanta, admits that she finds a most exhilarating atmosphere in America that evi-dences of its prosperity, are constantly amazing her; that the comfort of the fire-heated houses, their conveniences, their brightness and beauty are in striking contrast to the houses of old France. "Only the newer homes there have furnace heat," she explains. "All of the becutiful old ones, great and small, have open fireplaces and stoves. Yes, it is often very cold in them. Yes, it is very uncomfortable, but," with a charming gesture, "it is France and we all love it."

"And what is all this about so many rich young girls, working young girls, blen eleve, who don't need to work . . . why do they work when they don't have to? Another charming gesture.

"In France, following the war, many young women began working. So many men had been killed during the war they feared, you see, there would be no husbands for them. They wanted to provide for their future. Even those who had small dots, enough, with a husband's fortune or earnings added to it, but not sufficient to live alone on through Everything happens, everywhere, sooner or later."

ADAM GRENIER was pleased to come to Atlanta during such a beautiful season, with the landscape so softly radiant. She could not as yet, she admitted, accustom herself to the American manner of dining—to meat and vegetables served on the same plate. But is there no class in France who do this?" I asked. "Not even among the very poorest people who haven't many dishes of any kind to eat anything on."

HE shook her head thoughtfully. "The very poor people who haven't many dishes—well, they wash the same dish between courses. That's simple, isn't it?"

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spolls and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germladen phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of gennine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote in

A Sinner Beloved To Be Repeated.

The play, "A Sinner Beloved," will be repeated by members of the Susannah Wesley class, of Druid Hills Methodist church, Sunday, November 24, in response to many requests by friends and members of the class who were unable to be present when it was presented a few weeks ago, and will be directed by Mrs. Hugh Harris.

was presented a few weeks ago, and will be directed by Mrs. Hugh Harris.

The story is that of a strong love, a divine love, and is ably portrayed by talented members of the Susannah class. We have often heard of the "Prodigal Son" and the wonderful and forgiving love of the father, but this story is of a prodigal wife and the great love of her husband, the stern, austere, upright Prophet Hosea. The resume of the life of Hosea is given by Mrs. Harris before the play and an insight and understanding is realized of all the characters. Hosea is magnificently portrayed by Mrs. Arthur Burdette. The light, laughter-loving wife is given by Mrs. Hugh Harris. Her acting is great in the slave-seller is Miss Lucy Harris, and the Priest of Baal is hated by all as he boasts of his power ever Gomer. This part is well rendered by Mrs. A. G. Maxwell. The little children, with Ammi, are clustered about their fatheir names of bitterness and disappointments, Jezrell, Lo-Ruhamar. Lother, Hosea. On the market Hosea hids for his erring wife, declaring that his heart's love once given cannot be taken back, and while he hates the sin, he still loves the sinner. A wonderful story of the great love of a husband for a wife and Hosea now realizes that as his love for his wife, so is God's love much greater

She spent several months in England when she first went abroad, afterward visiting Norway and Sweden, and following that cruise, she toured continental Europe. She spent the past summer in Switzerland, departing thereafter for England in October, sailing from an English port the early part of November. Mrs. Cosgrove is very popular in Atlanta society, and will be cordially welcomed by a wide circle of friends. She is exceedingly cultured, has a very charming personality, is entertaining in her conversation and is gracious in manner. Her return to Atlanta will furnish an inspiration for a series of social affairs to be given in her honor. Apropos of Mrs. Cosgrove always taking passage to Europe on the Mauretania there is a rumor that a syndicate of American financiers have formed plans to purchase the decorative work in the steamer, delivery not to be taken of course, until the 22-year-old ship is broken up many years hence, so it's reported. These American millionaires intend to have the gleaming walnut, satinwood, oak and mahogany woods, and the gorgeous gold fluted pillars, re-erected in a yacht club in New York city. Many generations of American travelers have made the voyage to Europe aboard the Mauretania.

Back to Sick Bed By His Physician

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 20.
(P)—Knute K. Rockne, Notre

today by his physician, Dr. R.

Ill., next Saturday, for the Northwestern game. Rockne was also directed to remain in bed for another week. He has been afflicted with a blood clot on one of his legs.

The physician's orders precludes the possibility of Rockne having direct charge of the team in preparation for the Northwestern contest and the Army game, which is to be played in New York city November 30. Tom Lieb, assistant coach, will direct the remaining workouts.

It is doubtful if Rockne will be able to accompany the squad to New York.

Choctaws Beat Mexican Team

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 20.—(P)—
The Mississippi College Choctaws defeated the University of Mexico today in the second game of intercollegiate football ever played in Mexico. The score was 28 to 0. The game was a part of the dedication ceremony of the Workers' Athletic field at Val Ilaiena. The Mexican team lost its first game to Louisiana College, 59 to 0. on October 5.

Mississippi College smashed over three touchdowns in the first quarter for a 21 to 0 lead. Mexico found itself after this period and held the American team scoreless until late in the final period, when Mississippi managed to put over a fourth score. The final touchdown was followed by a desperate advance by the Mexican players which nearly carried them to their first touchdown in the history of Mexican football before the game ended. When the final whistle blew, Mexico had the ball on the Mississippi College 10-yard line after a long march. The control of the co

Jackets Will Know Chances Against Georgia After Tiger Game.

By Ralph McGill.

It was said that the World War at was said that the World Walf was won on the cricket fields of England. Not that there is any connection at all, but the Georgia Techgeorgia game, scheduled for Athens on December 7, may be won on Tech Flats Thanksgiving Day.

Flats Thanksgiving Day.

As the two teams stand today, Georgia is regarded with favor in so far as the December classic is concerned, Tech has never yet reached the necessary amount of co-ordination it would require to win from Georgia. Hence all the preparation that is going on at the Flats this week for the Auburn game. If the Jackets can establish their teamwork in that game, if the line and the backfield works with co-ordination, Tech will win by a substantial margin and emerge on even terms with the Bulldogs in the pre-game ratings.

HAVE STARTED OVER.

Jacket coaches have practically started their season over. They have gone back to fundamentals. The line is being sent through long drills with the bucking machines and the backfield is working at long signal drills in order to perfect the timing of their plays.

The team is being instructed as if it were a new one. It is practically that. The style of play was reordered when Vance Maree was shifted from the backfield to the line. Gene Strickland plays a different style game and must be fitted into Maree's fullback position.

The line play has been changed slightly to accommodate the new force at tackle. Tech coaches hope to make Maree the fifth man in the Auburn and Georgia backfields. "BEAT AUBURN!" CRY.

The cry at the Flats is "Beat Auburn!" a strange cry indeed in these latter years. Tech would probably defeat Auburn with the machine that has gone all through the season. The idea is not to make an effort at a large score against Auburn. There is no guarantee that Auburn would permit such a thing for one thing and Tech wishes to win with a smoothworking machine, something the Jackets haven't had all fall, for another.

Every fight on the card of nine bouts was well worth the while and the program was much better than any of the others. The boys were well matched for the most part and there was plenty of action in each bout.

Carpenter won a three-round decision over Wofford in the semi-final bout. Carpenter floored his opponent for the count of seven just before the bell halted the bout. Wallace was an easy winner in his bout with Boyd of the Elberton Athletic Club.

Kimsey, of North Georgia Agricultural College, won by default overland punch but he sprained his wrist in the second round. Hinton won a three-round decision over Vincent, substituting for Harper. Both young-stated with an injury for the semi-final punch but he sprained his wrist in the second round. Hinton won a three-round decision over Vincent, substituting for Harper. Both young-state of the Red and Black backs.

If Georgia emerges from the Alabama game without injuries it will be ready for the best the Jackets have to offer. The game will serve to get the team going at full speed. A loss would hurt the morale but little so far as the Georgia Tech game is concerned. A bettering defeat with several players injured would impose a severe handicap on the coaches in getting the team ready for Tech.

The Thanksgiving Day games will

Varsity Drives

Those who have looked with pity on the lowly guard, who rams his nose into the dirt to stop the last plunge at the goal line or rushes out to cut down a defensive back and allow "Shifty" Pupps to run 35 yards for an eight-column headline, should spare their sobs.

Slowly but surely as the game has developed and folks have become more familiar with the intricacies of team play, the guard has been receiving annually a larger share of credit.

This year there are more great guards in the Southern conference than ever before. One gathers this from news reports on the games and from comments of coaches and scouts as the

"BEST GUARD I EVER SAW."

At hand are communications from coaches concerning allstar players. Since no one observer can see all 23 of the conference teams in one season, he needs plenty of help in getting somewhere close to an equitable all-conference selection. Coaches always are glad to help in such matters and their opinions are invaluable.

But what do I find? Nearly every coach in the or-ganization has "the best guard I have ever seen." Either the coach has such a player on his team or has seen one in action.

I find in the questionnaires I sent out mention of the usual army corps of halfbacks, but never has been harvested such a crop of all-time guards as one finds now.

A MOB OF THEM.

Sington, of Alabama, plays both guard and tackle in the Alabama system and can be tossed into the tackle class for the sake of clearing up the fragments. But far more than 12 baskets the rescue. In fact he is one of the mainstays in the Petrel line this year.

Since he has been playing at center.

Look at this list: Brown, of Vanderbilt; Thayer, of Tennnessee; Forquer, of Kentucky; Steele, of Florida; Boedenger, of Tulane; Leathers, of Georgia; Farris, of North Carolina; Gunnells, of Clemson; Brooke, of Tech. And not all the precincts have been heard from

Some of these guards have driven their coaches into paens praise, far more than was given to the halfbacks.

APPRECIATION INCREASES.

It is probable that the present crop of guards actually is not much better than the crop in 1926 or in 1924 or in 1920. There were fine guards in those brave days. But it probably is due to the fact that the public and the press are paying more attention to the finer points of line play than ever before.

Guards on defense still drive in to pile up the play if possible, but their functions on offense are highly developed. They step back and wheel into the interference on off tackle plays and end runs or they check and then knife through to cut down the secondary on cutback plays through center. They drop back to protect the passer or hold firm on punts.

Such intense activity was bound to be noticed. Guards have been doing that for many, many years, but the spectators learn

By that last remark I do not mean to toss mature vegetables at the public. The public attends football games to enjoy itself and has not spent much time studying up on inside play.

Bridge, I believe, is the only game (if it can be called a game) that demands a course of heavy study. Probably that is why bridge attracts no spectators. But if football fans put half as much study on football as they devote to bridge—er—a lot of expert writers would have to go into the grocery business.

"DOC" STEWART PASSES.

Although they ceded first place to King, Tech High ace, the Georgia Tech freshman cross country team downed the Smithy harriers by a 20-to-35 score over the short course, at the Flats Wednesday afternoom. King, flashing home in the time of 14-52, was followed in order by Pearce, Gegenheimer, Clarke, Johnson, and Von Hermann, of the Junior Jacketon, Tanner, Power, and Baker, all of Tech High, chased them home.

No more picturesque character ever coached football in the Southern conference than Dr. E. J. Stewart, whose death in a Texas hunting accident is recorded in the news.

"Doc" Stewart coached football and basketball at Clemson college for several years. He was the beau brummel on the sidelines as he directed his team in a game. He was a man of interesting whims, something of a dreamer, and clung to a delightful old-fashioned sense of honor.

John Columbus Bell, ringleader in more than one Oglethorpe football uprising, was seen Wednesday making his way about the campus on crutches. It appears that Bell, best of all the backs in the Oglethorpe stable, has chipped a piece from a bone in his foot and will not be able to play against Mercer Saturday. That, according to Oglethorpe officials, is positively true. They see little hope for the old man to scurry about with the football in this game which centers interest in this section.

With it being home-coming day and Mercer a most important foe, the loss of Bell casts a different aspect on the situation and makes it quite grave.

ANOTHER ONE.

Nor is that all. Jeff Burford, who took over the captain's reins after the departure of Charles McLaughlin some time ago, is suffering from a twisted knee he received in the St. Xavier game last Saturday. His loss will leave the Petrels without the services of an accurate snapper back. Burford started his career at Oglethorpe as a backfield man. Ends were scarce and he was shifted to that position which he filled to satisfaction.

Conference May Follow by Dividing Into Two Sections.

Rumblings of an approaching reorganization of the existing systems of intercollegiate sports supervision in the south became a definite manifestation Wednesday when Furman University, one of the strongest institutions in the councils of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association, announced it would withdraw.
Furman hopes to precipitate the DEFINITE MOVE. A similar idea of dividing the Southern conference, now an unwieldly association of 23 larger institutions, for years has been sporadically agitated. Last year a brief effort was made in the south Atlantic section to have members in the states of Maryland, Virginia, and the Carolinas secede from the conference, but it faded at the annual meeting into hotel lobby talk. This year the southeastern group, while not officially considering the matter, is quietly sounding out neighbors on a plan to secede and form a smaller conference.

In the Southern conference particu-larly matters of schedules for football teams are difficult to arrange with any parity of strength. many see in it a forerunner of a splitting up of the Southern conference.
Athletic leaders have been of a mind that the system of sports supervision

GREENVILLE, S. C., Nov. 20.— Furman University, one of the S. I. A. A.'s strongest contenders of past years, will withdraw from that body at its December 13 meeting, officials announced here tonight. Word to that effect has already been communi-cated to the president of the associa-tion.

The step is not being taken as a result of any dissatisfaction with the policies of the association, it was stated, but rather for the purpose of obtaining a more uniform basis of competition in all intercollegiate contests in which Furman participates. In past years, when playing Southern Intercollegiate conference teams, it has been necessary for Furman to adhere to the rules of S. I. A. A. and also to the rules of the S. I. C. In the future Furman will play all games under the rules of the Southern conference.

WRESTLERS MIX HERE TUESDAY

2 Heavyweight Matches on Card-Brunowicz Makes Good Showing.

Jim McMillin Monday night in Nashville.

McMillin, former Illinois tackle and teammate of Red Grange, is one of the prominent figures in the game today. Brunowicz has improved steadily and his work in the Nashville match was praised highly. Of the match one Nashville paper said:

"Brunowicz has become some wrestler, judged from his performance against McMillin, not allowing the former Illini tackle to become his master save on one occasion when after nearly an hour of nip and tuck battling McMillin won the first fall with a flying tackle, a crotch hold and a body sham. Brunowicz came back and in a few seconds short of 15 minutes, pinned McMillin after the latter missed a flying tackle and seemed missed a flying tackle and seemed hors de combat after he hit the floor. In the third fall, which was fast and furious, they battled on even terms until time was up.

"The bout got away with plenty of speed and Brunowicz was the aggressor from the start. While McMillin secured the first hold, a headlock, Frank squirmed around and got hold of Jim's foot and the punishment meted out was sufficient to bring evidence of pain. From then on it was a ques-tion of who could get the hold the quicker and there was some pretty Although be has not made a definite announcement. Coach Doyal at Boys' High has indicated that he will start his reserve backfield and several of the reserve linemen against Tech High. Boys' High has an abundance of material both for line and backfield duty, and in the Lanier game Coach Doyal used numerous reserves and apparently didn't weaken his team.

Tech High has several capable reserves, but Coach Tolbert is taking no chance and the regular varsity line worked well, smearing the plays of the South Carolinians. The secondary defense broke up hasses and backed up the line in good fashion.

Chambers, Clark backfield ace, several times broke through for long runs to touchdowns. He skirted the ends in rare form behind the perfect interference of Baker, Wadley and Dukes. This quartet ran wild throughout the workout. Roberts, the lanky when Clark defeated, did some wonderful broken field running and appeared to be in the best of condition.

Minor Leagues Greatly in Red

The minor league baseball situation is becoming more and more discouraging. This fall the reports indicate that more of the little fellows are in financial trouble than in any fall in the past.

Something will have to be done about it or there will some day be a crash that will astonish the baseball world.

There is no doubt but that easy transportation, the radio and other modern agencies of progress have made a lot of small town fans into big town fans, and they're not giving baseball the play that they once did. Golf has taken a lot of them away, too.

The big leagues need the little leagues. The young players must be developed. The big leagues have been more than fair about the money they pay for the minor league stars, But they have been unfair in the practice of grabbing all the college stars, too.

If they'd let the minor leagues have the college man, and the sand-lotters, too, the minor leagues could get by perhaps.

Flu Hits Texas Christian Squad

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 20.—
(P)—With eight victories behind them, no defeats and no ties, the Texas Christian University football players were badly under the weather today, an epidemic of influenza having struck them at the most crucial point of the season.

Two members of the squad suffered so severely they had to go to bed and the others were barely able to show up for practice last night. Bahlor, one of the strongest teams in the southwest, must be faced Saturday and the following week Southern Methodist University, the only other undefeated team in the southwest, is scheduled. The malady was supposed to have resulted from the long cold ride which the team took from Austin last week after defeating Texas.

When the present football season opened Harvard looked to have th best looking material for many years. There was both line and backfield strength. And it might be mentioned that the Harvard team has played much better football than the season's results to date might indicate. Harvard has had a good football team in every game—barring the last twenty minutes against Dartmouth, when Marsters started running amuck with enough stuff to disorganize the Crimson lineup.

The point is that scores and results don't always show the true strength of a football team. Harvard has greater possibilities for speed and power, for attack and defense, than the season has shown so far. And Harvard in her final stand against Yale hopes to get clicking for the first time as Harvard coaches think the team ought to click. Yale hasn't had a resting spot since early October. Harvard hasn't drawn any soft marches since mid-October. Both the Blue and Crimson have been marching along storm-swept roads. Harvard has had to depend less upon with a fine supply of backfield reserves.

one man, with a fine supply of backfield reserves.

All the elements are present to make one of the best Harvard-Yale games of many years in this meeting. Both squads have their supply of high-class talent, with enough individual stars in either the running or passing game to make the contest remembered.

The Major's Big Stand.

Football teams are not rebuilt in a hurry, and it took Major Frank Cavanaugh a season or two to get going at Fordham. But when he got joing there was no half-way stuff about it. The major's record and Fordham's record have been something to write about. Now both face their hardest game of the season, with Bucknell coming along. Bucknell was good enough to beat Villanova, and no one else has been beating Villanova for a long time. Certainly beating Villanova has been no habit since Harry Stuhdreher landed in the neighborhood.

But the major has his battery ready to fire. Few believed he could play West Virginia and Boston College within a period of four years and escape defeat. But Fordham made good for him, where West Virginia had little left to throw against Detroit University four days after the Fordham game, a hard, bruising battle, demanding reserve surplus which

Another Army-Navy Angle.

In all this discussion by politicians intended to force an Army-Navy rame next season, one factor has been overlooked. This happens to concern the boys who are playing the game. For example, the Army has already completed its schedule for 1931, and this schedule is about all that any one can ask from a team. Modern football schedules have to be arranged at least one, two or even three years

The Navy also has about completed a schedule that will keep its men hard at work from October to December. A football team having only so many reserves can play only a certain number of hard games without forcing the players beyond a healthy limit. For example, next fall the Army again meets Notre Dame on the last Saturday in November. It would be criminal to force another game just one week later. It would be equally criminal to force Navy players into such a contest after a season that had taken a heavy

Modern football is no May Day party. There are a few teams with enough reserve strength to play six or seven hard games. But there are few of these. Others try to play through such a season, only to find their teams broken and stale, with the nerve systems exhausted. This helps to account for so many of the so-called upsets. For this reason a team may be two or three touchdowns weaker one Saturday than it was the Saturday before

Such a contest as the Army-Navy battle cannot be forced upon two football teams where hard schedules have already been arranged. It would be more than the players could face without suffering serious effects.

There is one detail no politician has yet considered. If left to many of them, they would have both teams playing hard games all over the country from early October into Christmas week. The next orator who arises to suggest that the Army and Navy be forced into action next fall might wait just a minute or two and consider a factor that has been given little consideration—the young man out there on the field taking the punishment.

How many know that any number of football schedules have been practically completed through 1933 and 1934?

So far Doc Spears at Minnesota hasn't tried out Bronco Nagurski at quarterback. But he may give the Big Nag a shot at this job before the season is out. He has already starred in most of the

"I've seen Cagle, Marsters and Booth, among others this season, writes Wanderer, "but I'll still pick Banker, of Tulane, as the best of the lot. He can do more things well than any of them, admitting that his schedule hasn't been as hard as it might have been. If given a chance on a team playing a larger number of harder games in the East or West, he would be the talk of the country. And when it comes to football, one section looks like any other, as far as I am concerned.

Auto Race Promoter Will Entertain for Scribes Friday Night.

Newspapermen of Atlanta, especially sports writers, will be guests Friday night at a dinner at Robinson's place on Paces Ferry road. The dinner will be given by George Hamilton, veteran automobile race promoter, who is manager of the new Atlanta speedway, which opens on Paces Ferry road Thanksgiving Day.

Two new entries for the opening events of the new Atlanta speedway races to be held Thanksgiving Day on Paces Ferry road, were received Wednesday by George Hamilton, promoter, and manager of the track. Henry Schurch, of Hollywood, Cal., former Pacific coast champion, and Jimmy Patterson, of Kansas City, Mo., were the new names added.

Patterson, of Kansas City, Mo., were the new names added.

Four veteran drivers already have filed their entry blanks and several others are expected during today, Hamilton stated Wednesday. Syr and Winn were received Wednesday. Schurch was the youngest driver in the 500-mile Indianapolis speedway race this summer and was in fifth place at the end of the 150th lap when his motor developed a supercharger trouble and forced him to the pits. He was driving a Frontenac Miller and will pilot the same car in the opening races next week.

tenac Miller and will pilot the same car in the opening races next week. He is one of the most daring dirt track drivers and has been a consistent winner all summer and fall. Patterson, known as the "flower man," because of his hobby for flowers, will pilot a Sejnost Special, which required three years to build. The car was built for the Indianapolis race last year but the specifications on the cubic inch displacement in the cars prevented his machine from entering. The car has a displacement of 118 cubic inches and a short time before the races were held the officials of 118 cubic inches and a short time before the races were held the officials cut the displacement requirements to 91 cubic inches, thus eliminating Patterson's and other cars. His car has a maximum speed of 125 miles an hour and has won many prizes on the tracks in the east.

Emory Freshmen

Finals in the fall freshman tennis tournament at Emory University are to be played this afternoon between Russell Bridges and Jack Leadingham both of them ex-Boys' High stars. Bridges is a big favorite to win, considering his past performance, both in the tourney and in his playing in the Atlanta prep league during the last two years. Last year he was captain of the Boys' High team, which won the prep net title.

In winning their way to the finals these boys defeated several of the best tennis players in the frosh class. They will probably be on the team that plays the two other Emory junior colleges in the spring. The winner is to receive a gold medal. Finals in the fall freshman tennis number of All-American selections.

To date the Tarheels have lost only one of the eight games they have played, and six were with conference teams. The one loss was to Georgia. In points scored they rank near the top of the nation's list.

In Ray Farris, North Carolina's famous triple-threat guard, the Tarheels feel confident that they have a man who will be the first choice for All-Southern for that post and who will be named on many national selections.

Triple-threat guards are about as Triple-threat guards are about as The threat guards are about as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth. They are a powerful asset to any team, for when they pull themselves out of the line into the backfield the opposing team never knows whether to opposing team never knows whether to look for a kick, a pass, or a run. Captain Farris is capable of doing all three and doing them exceptionally well. Coach Chuck Collins has used quite effectively this sort of strategy to baffle North Carolina's opponents. This year the Tarheels have young Johnny Branch, quarterback, who is a pretty fair punter, and so Farris has not been called on to do much of the kicking this season.

Farris is one of those players who found himself in college, after his high school coach told him he would never make the grade. He stands 6 feet and weighs 185. He is a senior and is playing his last year. He is president of the university student body. As in other sections, there is a weaith of good backfield material in the south this year. The pickers face a real dilemma. But one thing they must keep in mind: If they pick any back from the section of the conference comprised by North and South Carôlina or Virginia and Maryland they can't overlook Jim Magner, South Carolina or Virginia and Maryland they can't overlook Jim Magner, the Tarheels' high-scoring ace. Magner has averaged 8 yards for every time he has carried the ball this year, and he rates ace high as a blocker and passer. Mentors of teams who show poor records are once again targets for shafts of the football fan, who, at the end of each season, becomes a head-hunter extraordinary. Some of the changes have been evolving since the end of the 1928 season. Some are being made because the coach wants to move to other fields.

Out of an advance crop of rumors there are only two changes. Forecast which are authentic. Captain Biff Jones of the Army is to be relieved of his West Point assignment by Major Ralph Sasse. Army has had only a fair season. Officially, Jones has been assigned to service at Fort Sill. Actually he may reseign his commission and become coach at a civilian institution.

The second known change will be made at the University of Washington. Enoch Bagshaw is to leave his coaching post there. Nobody knows who will succeed him. Biff Jones is one of the nominees.

Fordham, one hears, is to have a successor to Major Frank Cavanaugh, who this year piloted his eleven to one of its best records in history. There appears to be no strong contender for the job. The iron major is another University of Washington resultility.

Columbia may have a change in coaches. Columbia has won four easy games, lost all others. Coach Charley Crowley's successor might be a western conference coach. Among the nominees are Dr. Clarence Spears, of Minnesota; Dick Hanley, of Northwestern; Jimmy Phelan, of Purdue, and Adam Walsh, line coach at Yale.

Rumors which have it that Jock Sutherland is to leave After a great year have been mixing with the smoke of Pittsburgh. These reports were scouted in Pittsburgh today. Since Pitt is the best team in the east, it is obvious that Coach Sutherland will remain if he wants to.

The real returns will not begin to come in until the sportsmen from south Georgia report at the end of the week. Those who dashed out short distances around Atlanta returned with an average of about a dozen each.

THE BAG.

with an average of about a dozen each.

THE BAG.

The hunters, with three days in which to shoot, are expected to get the limit of 20 each day. The game wardens and the deputy wardens, with fees as their incentives, are expected to watch closely and arrest those who go over the limit.

Sallying forth on the same day with the bird hunters were a few who were scornful and condescending. They were going after wild turkey, the most elusive of all the remaining game birds. They went forth with plenty of warm clothing and thermos bottles of, well, coffee. They consider the bird hunters an inferior type of sportsman. To them long hours of lying in wait, long hours of using a "turkey caller" and maybe a shot at a big bronze gobbler means more than all the quail in the world.

They KNOW.

The bird hunters, who know what it means to see a setter or a pointer freeze at some clump of grass, know the tightening of the heart muscles that come with that moment; know the wild beat of the heart muscles that come with that moment; know the wild beat of the heart as the dog waits and the hunter walks slowly forward waiting for the brown bundles to go shooting into space. The bird hunter is content. He knows.

No one ever stops to consider why the hunters? What is the urge in a man that makes his fingers itch for a gun? What impulse is it that shakes off the chains of civilization and makes him a killer?

Time was when the man had to go forth and kill game for food. The psychologists tell us that this urge to hunt is but the outcropping of an atavistic force. Viewed simply as sport it would lack most of the qualities it possesses.

A NEW MAN.

There is something else to it. When the dogs freeze on point some alchemy turns the hunter's blood to hot blood that course faster through his veins. His heart contracts. He crouches. His gun moves instinctively forward. He peers ahead intently. There is an eagerness about him, a craftiness. He steps lightly. He would stalk his game and slay it. He is clothed again in skins and there are hun

Auburn Harriers Close Season

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 20.—Coach Wilbur Hutsell's Auburn cross-country team brought their 1929 senson to a glorious close with a win over Hal Barron's Yellow Jacket harriers in Atlanta. In practice every coach usually plans his team to include some player who is gers and they were barely nosed out. Climatic conditions affected them. The birds go up and his gun leaps to his shoulder.

Going home with a few small bundles of blood-stained feathers, or a stiffening rabbit is a parade of accomplishment. The stores have better meats. The choice cut of a sirloin steak, now, broiled and with butter dripping from it—that is better than rabbit? The tender breast of a roasted chicken, white and juicy—that is better than the small-boned quail with the lump of white meat at his breast? It would be simple—the telephone—the cook in the kitchen.

the telephone—the cook in the kitchen.

THE HUNTER.

But, no! The hunter must have his game—must see it cleaned and prepared. He bustles into the kitchen to annoy the wife or the cook. He watches it prepared, hears reports of the cooking and at last sits down, regards the dish containing his kill with pride, looks around the table for smiles.

The man of the house pays the grocery bills regularly—steaks, veal, cutlets, chickens, ducks, turkeys, bread, cake, vegetables—he pays for them and expects no word of praise.

But when the man of the house has braved the wilds and made his kill and brought home food it is time for the cave woman and her brood to appland.

LACKS GOOD END.

answer is that he has not the end

After a coach selects his backs he looks for tackles. On most teams the tackles usually stand up fairly well, because the coach puts his best linemen at the position. If the coach is in the unusual but fortunate position, the unusual but fortunate position the unusual but fortunate position. tio of having too many backs, the overflow can be made into ends. The old theory is that a tall, rangy player is necessary for end, but some great ends have been short. Some-times sturdy little ends can handle the big tackles better than the tall ends. But they must be well-built and wellknit, and they should be quick as lightning.

In Illinois' final game last season, against Ohio State, we used as ends Stuessy, a quarterback, 154 pounds, and Hickman, a back, 149 pounds. As it developed, victory meant the Big Ten championship for us, and these boys were factors. They did the work assigned to them and proved again my contention that mere weight does not put you over, and that champions come in all sizes.

SHORT BUT GOOD. SHORT BUT GOOD.

Perry Graves, end on another cham-pionship team, 1914, weighed less than 150, and was short. Another diminu-tive end was Stub Muhl.

Some may argue from this that I do not want tall, rangy ends. Of course this would be ridiculous, The greatest ends in my memory are Oosterbaan, of Michigan, and Carney, Illinois, tall and ideally built for the positions.

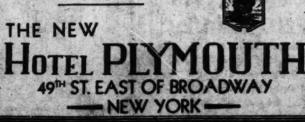

They were aristocrats of the game, men who created their positions, did everything and did it well. You could not have buried them in any

But for one Ooosterbaan or Carney there will be countless ends of aver-age ability, players who can be mould-ed into fair defensive men, although they will never thrill the stands with some brilliant feat.

Howard Jones Explains 'Gator Faculty COACHES' SNAP, Forward Pass Defense Holds Up Team

By Howard H. Jones.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20.—The development of the forward pass and its extensive use in present-day football has naturally brought discussion of the best method of defense, and there have been numerous articles upon the respective merits of the "man to man"

To clarify for the reader just what is meant by these terms, I will give a brief explanation before reviewing the merits of each method.

The "man to man" system is simply the assignment of each defensive back to one particular man of the offensive team. For instance, a coach using this style would make the right defensive halfback responsible for the left offensive end. The responsibility of a defensive back for a certain offensive player might be shifted in accordance with a change in formation by the offensive team.

The "zone" method is when, forinstance, the four backfield defensive men are stationed at more or less fixed points and are responsible for any passes thrown in their immediate territory or vicinity. FRESH PROBLEM.

> ZONE DEFENSE. The "zone" defense has its merit, but it is not impregnable. The "zone" defense proves adequate and satis-factory as long as the territory a defensive player must protect against passes does not cover too large an area. Again picture in your mind the commonly-used diamond defense of the backfield against a kic.; formation system of offense.

The type of forward passing which

DEPENDS ON BACKS.

We will first take the "man to man" method and show why its use under some conditions would prove fatal to the defensive side. Picture in your mind a defensive set up of seven men on the line of scrimmage and four backfield men placed in diamond formation facing an offensive kick formation of the opposing team. The safety man on defense would necessarily, in the open part of the field, be compelled to play some 35 or 40 yards from the line and "zone" styles.

write his answer to the question on a slip of paper. Both answers read, "Ends." This will probably surprise some followers of the game whose mental picture of an end is a player of great skill and all around ability who lies in wait to pounce unerringly like a hawk and drive back the enemy. some 35 or 40 yards from the line of scrimmage to be in position in case of a punt by the opposition.

case of a punt by the opposition.

In this situation the safety man could not play a "man to man" defense because any player he might be assigned to cover would take a few steps across the line of scrimmage and be absolutely free to receive a pass unless he was taken care of by another player. On the other hand the "man to man" procedure has some merit in that there is a definite responsibility. In this situation any definite assignment to a defensive player should be one which could be reasonably expected to be fulfilled.

ZONE DEFENSE. The truth is that usually an end The truth is that usually is a player who was not good enough for the backfield or the line. I have been accused of saying that a lineman was a back with the brains knocked out, but that an end was a man who never did have any brains.

FEW GREAT ENDS.

Even if this, taken seriously, is a slander on the lads who are giving their best at end, the fact remains that there are few really great ends and they were players who created their jobs, making more out of the position than the ordinary wing-man. But when I make the generalization that it is easier to find men for ends that other positions, I must add that end is not the easiest position to play well. All Warner and I meant was that the coach can usually find some player to place there who will do the things expected of him up to a certain point.

The ideal end should have speed to FEW GREAT ENDS.

In this type of defense the half-back would play about 10 yards be-hind the defensive line in a position approximately opposite the offensive ends. The fullback would be placed some three yards behind the middle of The ideal end should have speed to cover receivers of purts, and the ability to dodge. Some ends make up for their ordinary speed by being able the defensive line, and the safety man, or quarterback, about 30 yards be-hind the fullback. By employing a "zone' defense the problem is how much territory any one of these players can cover. And about the only answer is—as much as he can.

The type of forward passing which can be executed against the strictly "zone" defense is one which can be delayed long enough to pass men into the unprotected zones. This is not so easy because of the defensive linemen rushing the passer. Another method of forward passing against a "zone" defense is to have two or three eligible receivers go into one defensive zone and execute a sharp optional pass to the one least covered. When critics wonder why the coach does not use a certain play, often the

Either type of defense, when employed properly, is as efficient as the individual players make it.

The success or failure of a team is many times determined by the strength of defensive backs against forward passes, and many backs win

About a year after their marriage Bruce Stevens returns from a trip to the orient. Tom is delighted to see him. He asks Bruce to occupy the guest room at their bouse. They have dinner in town and arrive home late. Suzanne is furious. She and Tom quarrel over Bruce's visit. She refuses to get up the next morning to meet him. The two men go into town together, and Bruce tells Tom he will have to stay in town. Tom asks Bruce as a special favor to him to return with him to Stamford. That evening on their return from New York, Susanne greets them at the door. She is cordial to Bruce. She realized that too late as she stood that night in her bedroom in the midst of the scenttered gift of chocolates, with Tom's angry face confronting her. His voice had been hard and level as he told her that Bruce was to stay on—indefinitely; she knew that he meant it.

But that night she had not slept.

Confused impulses and fantastic solutions followed each other like dreams. She must get rid of Bruce! Tom's fondness for the man exposed him to his influence; and she shuddered when she tought what that was!

She had listened so often and so patiently to stories of Bruce's exploits, but it was a different matter to have him living in her house.

"We can take a walk afterwards perhaps."

He spoke to her almost formally, she noticed, and in the three days that followed he never attempted to put one finger on her or tell her in words what was in his mind.

But he had understood, he was interested—there was no doubting that! She'd be very, very careful, but she'd encourage this man. She was amazed at her own skill in pretending—it cost had never met Tom, would it have been possible for her to be drawn to a man like this? But, of course, she wouldn't have let herself be.

In the evenings she'd go to the movies with Bruce all alone, tellin Tom, who didn't care for movies, to stop at the standard plants of the standard plants.

But Tom had sworn he would not send him away, even if she went herself... So she thought hard, with knuckles pressed against her warm forehead, and no sleep in her eyes.

She'd make Bruce flirt with her, let Tom see, face bravely the terrific quarrel which would blow away all their misunderstanding and carry Bruce along with it—forever!

She had always been a little shy, and she was dismayed by her first day's defeat. With a man like Bruce, she expected the slightest hint would be all that would be neded for him to rush into pursuit. That he had any loyalty for his friend she never even considered possible.

surprised to find that Bruce was so blind.

And, indeed, most of the evening she had been worrying about Tom and Kathleen. It was true that Tom had faithfulness written all over his honest face, and that Kathleen wasn't "that sort." Still she was terribly keen on Tom and a little too attractive. It wasn't wise to throw them together like that more than once.

She got up this morning, conscious of failure, and feeling both baffled and depressed. Tom had rushed off, taking the car. Hereafter he'd drive himself between the house and the station, he had said. A little tear coursed down her nose. It was a milestone in her marriage. Never again would she go with eagerness to meet him. He would just come home from now on.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN

A sleepy sailor kept a poor vigil upon the deck of the becalmed schooner, while in the cabin below the mate of the Kincaid paced up and down arguing with Jane Clayton. Lady Greystoke had found a revolver in a table drawer in the room in which she had been locked, and now she kept the mate at bay with the weapon. The Mosula knelt beside her, weeping and moan-

Up and down before the door paced the infuriated mate, threatening, pleading and promising, but all to no avail. Presently from the deck above came a shout of warning and a shot. For an instant Jane Clayton relaxed her vigilance and turned her eyes toward the cabin skylight. Simultaneously the man was upon her, wrenching the weapon from her grasp and brutally hurling her toward the wall.

The first intimation the watch had that there was another craft within a thousand miles of the schooner came when he saw the head and shoulders of a man poked over the ship's side. Instantly the fellow sprang to his feet with a cry and leveled his revolver at the intruder. It was his cry of alarm and the subsequent report of the revolver which threw Jane Clayton off her guard.

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

volvers, cutlasses and the long knives that many of them habitually wore; but the alarm had come too late. Already the beasts of Tarzan were upon the ship's deck, with Tarzan and Mugambi urging them on. They needed little urging, however, for already the ferocious struggle with the Kincaid's crew was being repeated. CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

RESALE DEPARTMENT

Government To Add to Atlanta Equipment To Catch Offending Broadcasters.

BY MARTIN CODEL.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(North American. Newspaper Alliance.)—Broadcasting stations which are still persistent offenders against government regulations concerning deviations from their wave lengths, will soon come under the surveillance of a coterie of "policemen" whose "ears" will be as nearly infallible as the mechanical ingenuity of man can fashion them.

Monitoring the ether lanes to de

Monitoring the ether lanes to detect radio stations straying from their assigned frequencies is regarded by William D. Terrell, chief of the radio division of the department of commerce, as the most important task devolving upon the government's radio inspection service. The federal radio commission proposes rules and regulations, now frequently ignored, but it falls to the lot of Mr. Terrell's men to dispose of the offenders.

Accordingly, a constant frequency monitoring station capable of taking measurements throughout the entire radio spectrum is being completed by the department of commerce at Grand Island, Neb., which is about the geographical center of the United States. In his annual report, just issued, Mr. Terrell describes this master radio "policing" station in technical detail, pointing out that it will be of such design that it can measure with an lesign that it can measure with an accuracy of one part in a million.
Supplementing this station, whose ensitive ear is expected to be able to sensitive ear is expected to be able to tune in practically any radio station in the world, whether voice or tele-gram, a set of so-called secondary standards for closer observations will be established in each of the nine ra-dio inspection districts. Six more such sub-stations will be installed also on the six radio test cars of the depart-ment that operate out of district head-quarters at Baltimore, Atlanta, Dal-las, San Francisco, Detroit and Kan-

City. r. Terrell's 1929 report, as do Mr. Terrell's 1929 report, as do most of his previous annual reports, takes occasion again to praise the work of the amateurs, of whom there were 16.829 holding licenses at the end of the fiscal year. The pioneering work done by the army of "hams," on the short waves, especially in the 10-meter band of late, is highly praised. Mr. Terrell also looks forward to advances in long distance radio telephony as the result of amateur experiments.

Lindley W. Bode, of Haas & Howell, immediate past president, was named chairman of the executive committee, which also comprises W. A. Smith, Fred M. Garrett, and Dan McIntyre. Because of the merger of the casualty with the surety interests, effected during the past summer, a new constitution and by-laws were presented and unanimously approved.

The proposal for creation of a statewide insurance affiliation, which will include all those active in the fire, life, casualty insurance and surety fields was the chief item considered. It is intended that during May of next year a convention be held in Atlanta, the occasion to be known as Georgia Insurance Day, when executives from the home offices of companies operating in the south and authorities of note in insurance and banking will discuss the problems of interest to the profession.

Mr. Maloney, commenting in his annual report covering his first term in Mr. Maloney, commenting in his au-nual report covering his first term in office, predicted that the Georgia In-surance Day, the first of its kind in the south, would bring hundreds of visitors to the city and prove of in-estimable benefit to company and pro-ducer alike.
